Meryl Streep portrays former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in the biographical drama about not only the only woman to hold the post, but the person who held it the longest.

Set in the present, from which staunchly conservative, fragile, eighty something Thatcher, suffering from Alzheimer's, looks back on her storied life, The Iron Lady uses flashbacks to depicts Thatcher's life from 1979 to 1990, and includes her battles with dementia and her continued occasional perception that she is still the prime minister.

Streep disappears into her role, as is her wont. Her “impersonation” is uncanny, from her look to her posture to her gestures to her gait to her distinct vocal delivery to the precision of her idiosyncratic line readings.

The Charity Events Fund Raising Committee is once again organizing a Film Night to raise funds to meet the expenses incurred in this year’s Children’s Christmas party which was held at The Grand Hotel Excelsior and the Family Fun Day Out event which was held at The Malta International Airport.
